Communication Ethics

Blended Intensive Program, Helsinki 4.-8.5.2026, Diaconia UAS

Welcome to the BIP (5 ECTS), where you have a great opportunity to gain cross-border learning experience in an international context. You will meet international peers and lecturers from various subject areas and countries. The course includes a kick-off meeting online on 9 April 2026, from 3:00 to 6:00 PM (Finnish time), and an on-campus session at Diak UAS in Helsinki from 4 to 8 May 2026.

What is communication ethics?

Communication ethics refers to the principles and standards that guide how we share information and interact with others through various forms of communication. It's about doing the right thing when we speak, write, listen, or convey messages—being respectful, honest, fair, and responsible in all our interactions.

Purpose and contents of the course

This BIP offers an engaging international learning experience focused on communication ethics in diverse professional contexts. Participants will explore how ethical principles influence communication practices, with particular attention to empathy, leadership, intercultural understanding, and inclusivity. Through lectures, group work, interactive sessions, and student-led presentations, participants will gain insights into communication in professional roles, supported decision-making, anti-racist practices, and mindfulness, all while fostering international collaboration and reflection.
